

SHAPING GREAT COMMUNITIES

Urban Design Practice Lead

GSP Group is celebrating 25 years of practice providing community planning, urban design and landscape architecture services throughout southwestern Ontario. From our offices in downtown Kitchener and Hamilton, GSP Group serves the private and public sectors on a wide range of projects.

GSP Group has big plans for the future and we need the best talent to make it happen. As a multi-discipline land use planning, urban design and landscape architecture firm, the business is always evolving. Our team needs to be agile, ambitious and creative in pursuit of our shared goals. This is an amazing and unique opportunity for an experienced and high-performing professional to join our well-established, award-winning multi-disciplinary team in a primary leadership role.

At GSP Group, collaboration is a key part of our identity and success. With so many talented professionals, you'll find cross-discipline support for projects is always within reach. Our team is made up of the industry's best land use planners and landscape architects, and we want to bolster our burgeoning urban design team. Together, we are "shaping great communities" with smart, influential design.

We are seeking an Urban Design Practice Lead in the Kitchener office where you will:

- Lead and continue to elevate the firm's multi-disciplinary urban design practice within a collaborative team structure including business development, identification of new work opportunities and coordination of proposals, project management and overall assignment and distribution of work among the urban design team, recruitment, mentorship, professional learning and training, performance review, and other key leadership roles.
- Coordinate, direct and oversee project design efforts and the development of concepts, design briefs, reports, guidelines and other deliverables for planning and urban design projects of a wide range of types and scales, by:
 - Providing conceptual design direction at early stages of project development, and continued design leadership throughout project progression.
 - Identifying and organizing required project resources, developing work plans, budgets, timelines and strategies, and obtaining client approvals.
 - Assigning staff to selected projects and tasks by providing direction, monitoring, and ongoing guidance.
 - Maintaining and enhancing client relations as the key liaison for urban design projects and assignments.
 - Participating in project design and delivering on project requirements.
 - Communicating design proposals and solutions through effective and compelling presentations to a range of audiences and approval authorities.
